Run-off ready: City takes flood preparations to the streets

'Potential for the unexpected.' HESCO barriers on the front lines to hold off water

ALYSSA MCDONALD

alyssa.mcdonald@metronews.ca

The city is stepping up flood preparations in vulnerable areas around Regina.

Crews were busy on Thursday creating a 300-metre barrier along 17th Avenue, which lines Wascana Creek.

This street, as well as the area around Rotary Park, is a high-risk area for flooding due to the creek's depth and potential run-off. A temporary dike system involving a HESCO barrier is being set up at both locations.

"We just built a very high sandbag wall (in 2011) but it takes quite a few sandbags to replace one of these units," said Jay O'Connor, manager of emergency management with the city.

The HESCO barriers are four feet high and what O'Connor described as "one metre by one metre square," and are filled with layers of sand. The provincial government used HESCO barriers in communities around Saskatchewan during the flood in the spring of 2011.

The city purchased the HESCO frames for about $90,000. Sandbags will still be used in many situations, including at the ends of the HESCO walls.

"This is less resource-intensive and it goes out a little bit quicker, so we can focus our small sandbag efforts in the locations where we can't get bigger equipment in," said O'Connor.

The city has approximately 100,000 small sandbags prepared for the potential spring flood.

"We know what the forecast is and we also know there is always the potential for the unexpected — more snow, we could get a rainstorm — so we factor that in," said O'Connor.

Sask. Government Insurance sees record winter for claims

Tackling the volume.

Plan in place to deal with high volume of claims

MORGAN MODJESKI
Metro in Saskatoon

Saskatchewan Government Insurance is seeing a record winter in 2012-13 as collision claims have reached a four-year high and ice dam claims have reached an all-time high.

According to numbers from SGI, collisions this past winter led to a total of 65,676 claims, up almost 17,000 from 46,685 in 2011-12.

But despite the numbers, Kelley Brinkworth, director of media relations with SGI, said they're not enough to affect insurance rates across the province.

"We've definitely seen some significant increases in terms of this year compared to last, and I think everyone has felt the effect of the winter," said Brinkworth. "But as far as collision claims, when we're looking at the auto fund side of things, one bad year doesn't mean it's time for another rate increase."

What is an ice dam?

- Ice dams are a build-up of ice in eavestroughs, creating a back-up of melting water on a roof that causes it to drip into interior walls.

Ice dam claims, which are covered by SGI Canada, the group's national branch, also skyrocketed from 27 in 2012 to 870 in 2013 until the end of March — 100 of which were roof collapse claims.

Brinkworth explained that

Kevin Lane, vice-president of automotive services with CAA Saskatchewan, under a car with pothole damage in Regina. SGI says it's seen a significant increase in winter collision claims this past winter, and ice dam claims in 2013.

SGI has a plan to deal with the high claim volume.

"In the past, we've actually had staff from head office help out at different branches around the province, or we've hired independent adjusters to help us out. But at this point, I don't believe we've taken those steps," said Brinkworth.

"If it gets to be an issue where there's a significant wait or we're just having trouble keeping up, that would be something we would look at."

Music fans rejoice! Junofest lineup is out

Saskatchewan music fans were treated to some good news on Thursday with the announcement of the Junofest lineup. The ambitious festival, which will take place April 19 and 20 in Regina and Moose Jaw, will feature more than 100 artists, over 40 of which are Juno-nominated.

"Junofest is always a combination of the nominees for this year's Juno Awards as well as some national touring artists that are in the area and then a lot of really great locals," said Derek Bachman, Junofest producer with Rawk

Big name artists, such as

Corb Lund, Sarah Slean, Hannah Georgas, Yukon Blonde, Classified, Down With Webster, Serena Ryder, Royal Wood and Jim Cuddy will play sets at the festival.

Local and Saskatchewan artists are featured prominently in the lineup as well. These acts include Belle Plaine, The Lonesome Weekends, Val Halla, Shooting Guns, Fur Eel, Young Benjamins, Rah Rah, Julia McDougall and Library Voices, among many others.

"The Juno Awards will bring the who's-who of the Canadian music industry to Regina in April," said Bachman. "It is a great opportunity for them (local acts) to get out in front of some of those folks and impress them."

Venues for the event include the Lazy Owl, the Exchange, the Artesian, Casino Regina, City Square Plaza and the Artful Dodger, among others.

"Between the two cities we have about 15 venues," said Bachman. "So it is a really large festival ... there is a lot of preparation. This isn't something we started working on two weeks ago."

Poll. Canadians have little faith that their private information is protected

A newly released poll suggests Canadians overwhelmingly believe their private information is more at risk today than it was a decade ago and that the federal government and corporations don't take the issue very seriously.

The poll commissioned by the office of the federal privacy commissioner found about 70 per cent of Canadians believed there's less privacy protection today than there was 10 years ago.

A similar number believed protecting personal information will be one of the most important issues in the next decade.

Very few felt personal information was being safeguarded as much as it could be. Only 21 per cent of those polled felt the federal government took its responsibility to protect private information seriously, about 64 per cent responded "somewhat seriously" and 12 per cent chose "not seriously."

For businesses, 13 per cent of respondents said corporations take the issue seriously, 68 per cent chose "somewhat seriously" and 18 per cent replied "not seriously."

Many acknowledged they have a role to play in better protecting their privacy.

Few reported being victimized by their personal information being online. Only 12 per cent said something they posted online negatively impacted their life.

The results of the telephone survey, conducted between Oct. 25 and Nov. 12, are considered to be accurate within 2.5 percentage points, 19 times out of 20.

Train derailment

Oil spill actually 100 times worse

The cleanup at the site of a freight train derailment in northwestern Ontario has broadened.

Canadian Pacific says while it initially thought only four barrels of oil escaped the toppled cars, it appears about 400 barrels broke free.

Some 20 cars went off the tracks Wednesday morning near White River, about halfway between Thunder Bay and Sault Ste. Marie.

CP spokesman Ed Greenberg says crews quickly contained a leak in one of the cars but didn't realize another had spilled until much later Wednesday.

Greenberg says the spill was initially hidden under the snow and migrated "a short distance" beneath it.

Saskatchewanian dies in plane crash

A medical evacuation plane crashed early Thursday in the Bahamas, killing three people, including a Canadian citizen.

Local authorities say the plane crashed as the pilot tried to make a night landing at a small airstrip.

Police say the pilot was trying to land with the light of headlights from two trucks driven up to the runway.

The plane's wing hit one truck, spewed fuel and then spun into the second, which exploded, killing three people inside. The pilot survived.

The victims were identified as Edith Collie, 81, her daughter, Enamae Collie, who was in her 30s, and her husband, Tim Polowick, originally from Saskatchewan. All the victims were residents of Mayaguana island. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Only death could silence prolific movie reviewer

Roger Ebert. Even after losing much of his jaw to cancer, critic kept his trademark wit coming Roger Ebert had the most-watched thumb in Hollywood.

With a twist of his wrist, the Pulitzer Prize-winning critic could influence a nation of moviegoers and sometimes make or break a film.

The writer teamed up on TV with Gene Siskel to create a format for criticism that proved enormously appealing in its simplicity: uncomplicated reviews that were intelligent but didn't talk down to ordinary movie fans.

Ebert, film critic for the Chicago Sun-Times since 1967, died Thursday at the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago, two days after announcing on his blog that he was undergoing radiation treatment for a recurrence of cancer. He was 70.

"So on this day of reflection, I say again: thank you for going on this journey with me. I'll see you at the movies." Ebert wrote late Tuesday on his blog.

After cancer surgeries in 2006, Ebert lost portions of his jaw and the ability to speak, eat and drink. But he went back to writing full time and eventually even returned to television. In addition to his work for the Sun-Times, he became a prolific user of social media, connecting with fans on Facebook and Twitter.

Ebert's thumb — up or down — was his trademark. It was the main logo of the long-running TV shows Ebert co-hosted, first with Siskel of the rival Chicago Tribune and, after Siskel's death in 1999, with Sun-Times colleague Richard Roeper.

Ebert had a Midwestern charm but stuck strongly to his belief that critics should honestly tell audiences "how better to invest two hours of their lives."

The death of the nation's best-known movie reviewer is "virtually the end of an era," said director Steven Spielberg. "And now the balcony is closed forever."

In early 2011, Ebert launched a new show, Ebert Presents At the Movies. The show had new hosts and featured Ebert in his own segment, Roger's Office. He used a chin prosthesis and enlisted voice-over guests or his computer to read his reviews.

Scott Jordan Harris, who wrote for Ebert's website, said he was moved that the critic lost his voice but "never let that make him silent."

Fans admired his courage, but Ebert told The Associated Press that bravery had "little to do with it."

"You play the cards you're dealt," Ebert wrote in an email in January 2011. "What's your choice? I have no pain. I enjoy life, and why should I complain?" THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Police hope search for ring leads to clues in killing of Canadian couple

The slaying of a Canadian couple found dead in their winter home in Florida may have been motivated by robbery, police said Thursday.

Rochelle Wise's wedding band — valued at $16,000 — was missing from the couple's condo in Hallandale Beach, investigators said.

The ring is described as platinum finish with five half-carat white diamonds in a half-moon shape. Police said it may be engraved with the letters DCC on the inside.

The band has an unusual locking mechanism that allows it to open so that it can fit over a knuckle, they said.

"We are hoping that if we find this ring, it may lead us to more information," Hallandale Beach Police Chief Dwayne Flournoy told the Miami Herald.

Investigators are asking pawn shops and anyone who deals in used jewelry to keep an eye out for the ring.

It's the first clue to emerge regarding a possible motive in the deaths of Wise, 66, and David Pichosky, 71, whose bodies were found Jan. 10.

Police released video in February from a neighbour's surveillance camera hoping to identify a woman seen walking to the rear of the couple's home that day carrying an unidentified object then leaving without it.

Ohio. 'Craigslist Killer' sentenced to death in murders of three men

A self-styled street preacher was sentenced to death Thursday in the killings of three down-and-out men lured by bogus job offers posted on Craigslist.

The jury that convicted Richard Beasley of murder recommended that he face execution. The judge had the option of reducing the sentence to life in prison.

Beasley, 53, was convicted of teaming up with a teenager in 2011 to use the promise of jobs on an Ohio farm to lure the victims into robberies.

Three men were killed, and a fourth who was wounded testified at Beasley's trial.

The judge read the three death sentences in a hushed courtroom crowded with victims' relatives, some of them holding back tears.

Later, about to be sentenced on other crimes including kidnapping, Beasley said he was innocent and expects to have his conviction overturned on appeal. "I have killed nobody, and that's a fact," Beasley said.

New strain of bird flu causes fifth death in China

14 cases. It's not known how people are becoming sick, though scientists say the virus may have mutated, spreading more easily

A middle-aged man who transported poultry for a living and another unidentified person have died from a new strain of bird flu, bringing the death toll to five among 14 confirmed cases in China, the government and state media reported Thursday.

The 48-year-old man, who died in Shanghai, is one of several among the infected believed to have had direct contact with fowl. Until recently, the virus, called H7N9, was not known to infect humans.

The official Xinhua News Agency did not identify the fifth fatality, but said that person also died in Shanghai on Wednesday.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chickens are sold at a market on Thursday, in Shanghai, China. In a worrisome sign, a bird flu in China appears to have mutated so that it can spread to other animals, raising the potential for a bigger threat to people, say scientists. H7N9 has been detected in pigeons at a market in Shanghai, according to Xinhua News Agency. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What will the new flu do?

Reading the clues

Three sick people. That's all it took to make scientists who study influenza edge-of-seat nervous this week over a rapidly evolving public health situation in China.

Four years after H1N1 swine flu, a new avian virus, H7N9, came out of nowhere.

While it's too soon to say if these are the first halting steps of a new pandemic virus, at this point flu experts would not bet against H7N9.

Here's what they saw, and the clues they are looking for as they race to figure out if the world is on the verge of a pandemic.

Influenza scientists always pay attention when animal flu viruses start making people sick. While some H7 viruses have infected people in the past, viruses bearing H7 and N9 in combination had never been known to infect humans.

Adding to the alarm: The three people were not linked. That means each caught the virus from an animal, or a person. So far the virus hasn't been found in poultry or pigs, the likely suspects.

Chinese authorities announced they had found a closely matched H7N9 virus in pigeons in Shanghai but could these be the sole source? The WHO's top flu expert, Dr. Keiji Fukuda, doesn't think so. "Not impossible but not the most likely scenario," he says.

The first three cases didn't live close to one another and the distance among infections has become greater, making it increasingly clear that H7N9 virus is spreading, undetected, over hundreds of kilometres. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ont. wants probe of watered-down cancer meds

Ontario will appoint an independent third party to investigate how watered down chemotherapy drugs were given to more than 1,100 patients, some for as long as a year, Premier Kathleen Wynne said Thursday.

"It's unacceptable that this should have happened, that the doses would not have been accurate," said Wynne.

"The minister is pulling together all of the people who are necessary to figure out what happened, to get to the bottom of it, to understand how this happened and whether there's something systematic that needs to be addressed," said Wynne.

Many hospitals mix the medications themselves, but four hospitals in Ontario and one in New Brunswick all used the same supplier based in Hamilton, Ont. to prepare the drugs.

There was too much saline added to the bags containing the chemotherapy medications, in effect watering down the prescribed drug concentrations by three per cent to 20 per cent.

The five hospitals are contacting the affected patients to arrange quick appointments with their oncologists. Family members of Ontario patients who died are also being contacted.

Health Canada, the provincial governments, Cancer Care Ontario and the Ontario College of Pharmacists are investigating. The hospitals are also conducting their own probes.

The review will try to determine if the problem is systemic or just an isolated incident, said Health Minister Deb Matthews.

Asked whether the privatization of the preparation of chemo drugs was a factor,

Matthews said "that's an important question."

"I don't want to speculate too much, but I know that cost is not likely," she said.

The supplier, Marchese Hospital Solutions, said concerns over the drug mixtures were the result of "a difference between the manner of administration used in some hospitals that was not aligned with how the standardized preparation has been contractually specified."

The medication wasn't "defective," it said in a statement on its website.

Found: Ancient complex near Ur, home of Abraham

British archaeologists said Thursday they have unearthed a sprawling complex near the ancient city of Ur in southern Iraq, home of the biblical Abraham.

The structure, thought to be about 4,000 years old, probably served as an administrative centre around the time Abraham would have lived there before leaving for Canaan, according to the Bible.

"This is a breathtaking find," because of its unusually large size — roughly the size of a football pitch, said Stuart Campbell, who led the dig. The archaeologist said complexes of this size and age were rare.

Buenos Aires looks for bodies; death toll at 55

Argentine police and soldiers searched house to house, in creeks and culverts and even in trees for bodies, as more than 20 people remained missing Thursday from floods that killed at least 55 people in the province and city of Buenos Aires.

The torrential rains stopped Thursday, but a public health and safety crisis gripped the capital of nearly one million people, where thousands remained without power or safe drinking water.

Many barely escaped after seeing everything they own disappear under water reeking with sewage and fuel that rose more than nearly two metres high inside some homes. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

N. Korean missile on the move

Nukes. North is not believed to have mastered technology to miniaturize nuclear bombs to mount on long-range missiles

After a series of escalating threats, North Korea has moved a missile with "considerable range" to its east coast, South Korea's defence minister said Thursday.

But he emphasized the missile was not capable of reaching the United States and there are no signs that the North is preparing for a full-scale conflict.

North Korea has been railing against U.S.-South Korean military exercises that began in March and are to continue until the end of this month.

The allies insist the exercises in South Korea are routine, but the North calls them rehearsals for an invasion and says it needs nuclear weapons to defend itself. The North has also expressed anger over tightened UN sanctions for its February nuclear test.

Analysts say the ominous warnings in recent weeks are probably efforts to provoke softer policies from South Korea, to win diplomatic talks with Washington and solidify the image of young North Korean leader Kim Jong Un.

The report of the movement of the missile came hours after North Korea's military warned that it has been authorized to attack the U.S. using "smaller, lighter and diversified" nuclear weapons. The reference to smaller weapons could be a claim that North Korea has improved its nuclear technology, or a bluff.

The North is not believed to have mastered the technology needed to miniaturize nuclear bombs enough to mount them on long-range missiles. Nor has it demonstrated that those missiles, if it has them at all, are accurate. It also could be years before the country completes the laborious process of creating enough weaponized fuel to back up its nuclear threats. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A statement, purporting to come from the attackers Anonymous and circulated online, said that they had compromised 15,000 user records. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Algeria. Police identify remains

The remains of two young London, Ont., men were found in the wake of an Algerian gas plant siege in January, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police confirmed Thursday.

Authorities have identified Ali Medlej and Kristos Katsiroubas, officials said.

The announcement comes on the heels of media reports that the pair helped carry out a terrorist attack at the natural gas facility.

RCMP Insp. Marc Richer would neither confirm nor deny reports that the men were part of the group, saying only that they were there. Thirty-eight hostages and 29 militants were killed in the four-day fight.

"We are continuing our work, gathering evidence endlessly, to determine the circumstances that led to Ali Medlej and Kristos Katsiroubas departing Canada," Richer said.

Digital archives. British Library aims to preserve Internet for researchers Capturing the unruly, ever-changing Internet is like trying to pin down a raging river. But the British Library is going to try.

For centuries the library has kept a copy of every book, pamphlet, magazine and newspaper published in Britain. Starting Saturday, it will also be bound to record every British website, e-book, online newsletter and blog in a bid to preserve the nation's "digital memory."

As if that's not a big enough task, the library also has to make this digital archive available to future researchers — come time, tide or technological change.

The library says the work is urgent. Ever since people began switching from paper and ink to computers and mobile phones, material that would fascinate future historians has been disappearing into a digital black hole. The library says firsthand accounts of everything from the 2005 London transit bombings to Britain's Like reference collections around the world, the British Library has been attempting to archive the web for years in a piecemeal way and has collected about 10,000 sites. Until now, though, it has had to get permission from website owners before taking a snapshot of their pages.

That began to change with a law passed in 2003, but it has taken a decade of legislative and technological preparation for the library to be ready to begin a vast trawl of all sites ending with the suffix .uk.

Will you let Facebook rule your cellphone?

April 12 launch. New Home service for Android users puts social network at centre of mobile life

With its new Home service on Android gadgets, Facebook aims to make its social network the hub of people's mobile experiences. The question, now, is whether people want all their Facebook content greeting them every time they look at their phones.

If users download Facebook's Home software starting on April 12, Facebook will become the centre of their Android smartphones. Switch on your phone and you'll see friends' photos, overlaid by status updates, links and eventually, advertisements. If a friend sends you a message, their Facebook photo will pop up as a notification.

A feature called "chat heads" lets users communicate with their friends directly from their home screens without opening a separate app.

Done with Facebook? Swipe your finger to get to a screen with your regular Android apps to listen to music, watch videos or send email.

At first, Home will only work on some Android devices, including HTC Corp.'s One X and One X Plus and

Is this what users want?

- "What Facebook wants is to put itself at the front of the Android user experience for as many Facebook users as possible," said Forrester analyst Charles Golvin. While that makes sense for Facebook, he thinks the company is overestimating "the extent to which this is something their users want."

- "I'm sure there are people out there whose lives revolve around their social network and for them it makes sense to have it front and centre," Golvin said. "But this doesn't describe the majority of consumers."

Samsung Electronics Co.'s Galaxy S III and Galaxy Note 2. A phone from HTC that comes pre-loaded with Home will be available starting April 12.

The Home software won't be available for Apple's iPhone and iPad devices. Apple's iOS and Mac operating systems include features that integrate Facebook's services, but Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg said doing something like Home would require a closer partnership.

Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg speaks about the new Home service for Android phones at the company's Menlo Park, Calif., headquarters Thursday. "We think this is the best version of Facebook there is," he said.

RBC downgrades Lululemon

RBC Capital Markets cut its rating on Lululemon Athletica Inc. and lowered its target price on the stock Thursday following the departure of the company's chief product officer.

RBC analyst Howard Tubin said Sheree Waterson was instrumental in the design process at the company for the last five years. "While we continue to believe Ms. Waterson has a solid design team in place, the loss of her creative leadership adds a new level of uncertainty to the story," RBC said in an analysis. Waterson's departure came just weeks after Lululemon recalled its black Luon yoga pants over concerns they were too sheer. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Conference Board

Lack of innovation is holding Canada back, report says

The Conference Board says Canada has been spinning its wheels in the critical area of business innovation despite a decade of trying.

The Ottawa-based think-tank says its latest comparison of 16 advanced economies puts Canada in 13th place on innovation, a key element of a modern, competitive economy.

The report says Canada ranks second last in two important aspects of the overall innovation record, the amount businesses spend on research and development and in venture capital expenditures.

Transat may use foreign pilots to supplement fleet

Transat A.T. says it could turn to foreign pilots during its busy seasons after it begins to operate flights to sun destinations next year and change the composition of its fleet. "Canadian fleets should always comprise a substantial majority of Canadian pilots and crews, so with our internationalization, if necessary, we will use a minority of foreign pilots but they will be hired through existing government programs," said a Transat spokeswoman.

Transat said it can improve its profitability with a fleet model that can be adjusted according to demand. THE CANADIAN PRESS

SMARTPHONES, NOT SMART USERS

1 No fair. Kim Jong-un is being unfairly criticized for his threats by people who just don't know the story. You see, after the Second World War, both countries laid claim to the southern territory, but the North lost a controversial game of Rock, Paper, Scissors. They lobbied for a "do-over," but the South asserted that the agreement was stamped "No erasies" with a "No take-backs" clause. Furthermore, South Korea's President Park Geun-hye maintains that Kim's intimidation is feeble because "We are rubber and they are glue ..." (Note: This is NOT historically accurate. It only seems that way.)

2 Spaced out. American physics professor John Cramer released an upgraded version of his recording of the theorized Big Bang that formed the universe. Cramer explains that with no air to vibrate, space has no sound, but that the medium that pervaded the universe in the first 100,000 years-ish was far more dense than the atmosphere of the Earth. All I heard was "no sound in space," thinking, "Can we send Miley Cyrus there?"

3 Sins of the father. An international team of researchers revealed a "genetic risk profile" for smokers. Ostensibly, people with a certain DNA may be predisposed to cigarette addiction. Right now, insurance companies are determining how to charge additional premiums to "elite non-smokers" based solely on their genetic makeup. Thanks guys.

4 Knocked up. Fans and media have been critical of Kim Kardashian's weight and maternity fashions. Last week, Kylie defended her step-sis, saying, "It pisses me off when people say, 'You're so fat' to Kim." Khloe stated, "OMG, I love her style," while Kourtney said, "Boo. They're jealous!" then Kendall said, "If you like it and feel good, why not?" ... and then my head exploded.

5 Smartphone. In Brazil, a woman jumped onto the subway tracks for her cellphone just as the train was arriving. The driver sounded the horn while the woman struggled to reach the platform. Two men pulled her out as the train barely missed her legs, inspiring Apple's new slogan: "iPhone5. More important than life itself."

6 Carry-on? Oh, Justin. Everyone knows you don't take your monkey to Munich without proper paperwork! Now, German authorities have given the Biebs four weeks to get him, or he'll be thrown in with the other confiscated monkeys.

7 Take a bow. Twitter exploded when Rihanna's tour bus stopped at a Walmart in Kamloops, B.C., last Sunday. Sources say the megastar entered McDonald's, bought a soft drink and made a donation to McHappy Day. She then browsed the ladies clothing section, moving gracefully, almost floating across the floor, radiating light and smelling like fresh-cut grass on a summer's day. Everyone waved as the bus pulled away, and for just one brief moment, there was peace.

8 FYI. This week in 1975, the extraordinary Minnie Riperton hit No. 1 with Loving You. Many still remember that famous high-note. Four years later, Riperton succumbed to cancer, leaving husband Richard Rudolph with daughter, Maya. Yes, the same Maya Rudolph who made you laugh on SNL and in movies like Bridesmaids and Grown Ups. OK, maybe not Grown Ups.

In this city, transit is free

CITY OF TALLINN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Estonian capital pulls a world's first

A woman is seen placing her transit pass on an electronic reader on a city bus in the Estonian capital of Tallinn. It became the world's first capital to introduce free public transport for all residents. The initiative covers buses, streetcars and trolley buses. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Total cost
$16M

Deputy Mayor Taavi Aas says the experiment, which will cost the city some 12 million euros ($16 million) annually in lost ticket sales, has surpassed expectations. Passenger numbers are up 10 per cent, while the number of cars on city streets has fallen by as much as 15 per cent, according to Tallinn's transport authority. People move around more often, Aas said, adding, "This means they also spend more money, which boosts the economy."

Strategy actually builds city's revenue

The program is expected to boost the city's tax revenue because the registration requirement is essentially winning the city more taxable residents.

According to city calculations, some 40,000 people living and working in Tallinn are registered in other cities and towns. But more than 5,000 new Tallinn residents have been registered since Jan. 1, compared with 3,600 residency registrations during all of last year.

With 1,000 new residents equalling an estimated 1 million euros in tax revenue, the current registration rate would offset the cost. The only catch is that one must be registered as a city resident and get a two-euro transit pass. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Synopsis

It's spring! The days are getting longer, former Disney darlings are doing the Bikini Bounce on-screen in Spring Breakers and the Reel Guys have finally packed away their snow shovels and winter boots. So what better way to celebrate this time of growth and renewal than by staying indoors and watching movies? Today the Reel Guys select their favourite movies to usher in the new season.

Reel Guys

CROUSE AND
MARK BRESLIN

Crime thriller Spring Breakers, a flick that sees former Disney stars go wild, is one of many movies embracing the season. HANDOUT

Films that will put a spring in your step

Weary of winter? It's (hopefully) time to put away coats and bust out bikinis as the Reel Guys celebrate the coming of warm weather

Richard: Mark, there have been some Razzie winners based around spring break, that most springy of spring traditions. The Real Cancun and From Justin to Kelly spring to mind, but there have also been some pretty good ones. No one is going to mistake Reno 911! Miami as great art, but this rude, nude and lewd movie is quite funny, especially if exploding whales make you laugh. I also like the grand-ma of all spring break movies, Where the Boys Are. What movies remind you of spring?

Mark: Richard, to me ALL beach movies are spring movies, the formula being heat + teenagers + hope = spring. You mention Where the Boys Are, but my vote goes to For Those Who Think Young, a 1964 confection starring James Darren as a wealthy playboy trying to romance chaste Pamela Tiffin. It also stars Paul Lynde, Bob Denver, Tina Louise and Nancy Sinatra. But most importantly, there's a lot of footage of the great forgotten Florida comic Woody Woodbury. And it features the greatest movie car ever: a '64 Buick Riviera with the roof sliced neatly in two. I can't say enough good things about this bad movie.

RC: For the adults out there I'd recommend The Four Seasons, written, directed and starring everybody's favourite MASH surgeon Alan Alda. It uses the seasons — beginning in spring — to show the stages of friendship between three middle-aged couples. If it sounds too mid-life crisis-y for you, don't forget, it's also a comedy and Carol Burnett is terrific in it.

MB: Yes, it's a very good movie, with Carol Burnett in it, but it also has Bo Derek in it, too! And if The Four Seasons is about the cycle of renewal that comes with Spring, consider the Korean film Spring, Summer, Fall, Winter ... and Spring, which trumps the Alda film by an extra Spring. This quiet, meditative film about a Buddhist monk is best enjoyed on a Sunday night with a big pot of green tea. It's very good, but it doesn't have Bo Derek in it.

RC: On the other end of the scale we have Piranha 3D, Spring Break Massacre and Banshee!!! (they added the three exclamation marks, not me!!!) all of which are cautionary spring break tales.

MB: Yes, Richard, they may all be cautionary tales about spring break, but also about having a lousy agent.

Horror

Evil Dead

Director. Fede Alvarez

Stars. Jane Levy,
Shiloh Fernandez

Sam Raimi's original 1982 shocker The Evil Dead was a wall-to-wall, DIY splatter landmark. The Raimi produced, Fede Alvarez directed remake however forgoes most of the manic energy of the first picture (and its sequels) in favour of atmospheric chills, baroque elegance and an absolutely jaw-dropping onslaught of vicious, stomach churning carnage. The set-up is the same: a bunch of kids go to a cabin in the woods, read from a demonic book, get possessed and hack each other into butcher spoils. But a wild final act pushes the film into histrionic horror art. CHRIS ALEXANDER

Carrying the torch

"The story is relevant because we still stand on his shoulders. He started something — I would even say maybe he didn't even start it, it started before him. But he carried the torch. And he carried it alone for a period of time before other people could help him."

Chadwick Boseman who portrays baseball great Jackie Robinson in the new film 42. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

School's out for Bieber: Exams postponed for pop concerts

Officials at five Norwegian schools have reportedly rescheduled their midterm exams so as not to coincide with a pair of Justin Bieber concerts later this month, according to Fox News. The school officials were apparently concerned that holding the exams in conflict with the April 16 and 17 concerts would lead to students skipping the tests in favour of seeing Bieber. The singer himself apparently approves, tweeting a link to the news with the comment, "Love this."

The Word

Are Will and Jada getting jiggy with it?

THE WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Do Will and Jada Smith have an open marriage? If you read between the lines in a recent interview with the star with Huffington Post Live, it certainly seems like it.

"I've always told Will, 'You can do whatever you want as long as you can look at yourself in the mirror and be OK,'" she said. "Because at the end of the day, Will is his own man. I'm here as his partner, but he is his own man. He has to decide who he wants to be and that's not for me to do for him. Or vice versa."

Don't let my husband read this, please.

Amanda Bynes

It's her birthday and she'll act weird if she wants to Amanda Bynes celebrated her 27th birthday in New York earlier this week by exhibiting some "bizarre" behaviour, eyewitnesses tell E! News. Bynes was browsing for pipes in a market in flip-flops, sweatpants and a loose wig over her long hair. "She had this shoulder-length mousy wig and then all the hair was hanging out underneath. It was bizarre. She looked homeless," the eyewitness says, adding that Bynes raised more eyebrows upon leaving the store: "She was crossing into traffic, wasn't waiting for any of the lights to change, and a cab almost hit her twice." For those keeping track, Bynes has been spotted with fading red dye in her hair, even though she previously claimed that shots of her with red hair were of an imposter.

Donald Trump

Trump's suit against Maher shelved, for now

Donald Trump has dropped his $5 million lawsuit against comedian and television host of Bill Maher — which started over Maher's insistence that he would donate that amount of money to charity if Trump could prove he's not the son of an orangutan — but that doesn't mean the suit is history. "The lawsuit was withdrawn to be amended and refiled at a later date," Trump's attorney, Michael Cohen, tells E! News. Maher made his initial challenge to Trump after the Apprentice boss publicly offered to donate $5 million to charity if Barack Obama would produce his original birth certificate.

Since I'm the guy who's still working his way through the first season of Mad Men, I've been slow getting into Game of Thrones. That said, Thrones' plot line may have me forsaking Don Draper in favour of Tyrion Lannister.

I'm on board with any show that could possibly involve a feast or two. After all, where there's a chance of wild beast being served there's bound to be booze.

It's no cliché that white meats generally call for whites wines. Their texture and subtle flavours can get steamrolled by many reds, but not all. Chicken, especially one coated with a fruit or honey glaze, is a perfect match for the bright berry flavours that ooze from the pinot noir grape.

Thrones' tales of infighting and epic battles remind me of France, pinot's original home that's no stranger to clashes of historic proportions.

The 2011 Baron Philippe de Rothschild Pinot Noir Vin de Pays d'Oc ($11.95 to $13.99) from southern France has a soft, mushroom-meets-strawberry aroma and more than enough mouth appeal to match with honeyed chicken and fantasy world conniving. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. Food. HBO's Game of Thrones returned for Season 3 last week and what better way to celebrate than host a medieval-themed dinner party based on the epic fantasy novels and TV series?

ROMINA MCGUINNNESS
Metro World News in London

A Feast of Ice and Fire, the official Game of Thrones cookbook, recreates some of the mouth-watering recipes featured in the novels, including Dothraki Blood Pie and Hen on the Wall.

Co-author and Chef Chelsea Monroe-Cassel talks us through how to throw a premiere party, Westeros style.

Setting the scene: Rich, romantic and grandiose

We don't all live in castles, so it can be tough to transform a regular apartment into something that looks the part. One thing you can do is to set up some kind of entrance. Try to find a brocade or velvet throw from a thrift store.

Split it down the middle and tie it to either side of a door using gold cord to make a grander entryway. Illuminate the room by lighting candles everywhere.

I'd avoid using scents that are too overpowering, such as rose or patchouli, as the heavy smell could clash with the flavours of the food. Simple beeswax is best.

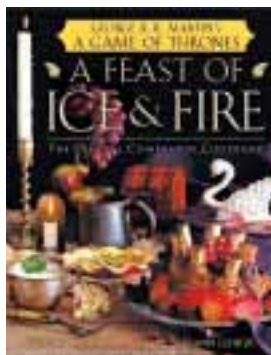

Table etiquette: Finger licking is OK

There's something awesome about being dressed up in a cloak and sat around a table eating chicken with your fingers by candlelight. Most of your guests will be hardcore fans, and think it's awesome. But others may be a little more reluctant. So if you take away their forks, leaving just knives and napkins, they'll have to play along like everyone else. Put in the extra effort to find medieval looking dishes and silverware, anything made from wood or pewter works.

The feast: Dig in

People think medieval food is gross, but recipes that sound weird are delicious once made. ... Seeing an opulent spread of food is really satisfying. So once everything is ready, lay it all out on the table at once. The only course that should be saved for later is the dessert. Serve it once your guests have settled down to watch the show in the lounge. Lastly, don't forget to quench your guests' thirst. Make sure you have plenty of red wine and apple cider to get you through the night.

Ingredients

- 3 tbsp butter, softened
- 1/4 heaping cup sugar
- 3 egg yolks
- 1/2 tsp baking soda dissolved
- zest from one lemon
- 1/4 tsp each salt, cloves, mace
- pinch saffron
- 1 1/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- juice from one lemon
- 1 tbsp honey

juice and honey in pan on stove over low heat. Let cool slightly before brushing onto cakes.

Appetizer. Very simple but tasty Dornish fare

"We haven't gotten to this in the show yet, but the Dornish have some of the best finger food. Take a platter and heap it with purple olives, flatbread, hummus and feta cheese."

Ingredients

- Hummus
- Purple Olives
- Pita bread
- Feta Cheese

1. Place the hummus, olives, pita bread and feta cheese on a platter and serve.

Dinner. Honeyed Chicken

"This is essentially just a roast chicken with a good sauce, but it's great because it's straight out of the halls of Winterfell. Plus, if you deny your guests silverware, they have to tear into it with their bare hands."

1. Rub chicken down with olive oil and salt. Heat oven at 450 F and leave to roast for approximately one hour.

2. In meantime, combine all ingredients for sauce in pan and leave to simmer until the raisins look plump and the mixture thickens. Remove from the heat and when the chicken is done, coat it with honey sauce.

Ingredients

- 1 whole chicken for roasting
- Olive oil
- Salt
- Sauce:
- 1/2 cup apple cider vinegar
- 1/3 cup honey
- 1 tsp fresh mint
- Small handful of raisins
- 1/2 tbsp butter

Dessert. Lemon cakes

"This is the quintessential Game of Thrones dessert because it represents everything that's good about living in that world ... and because of how mouth-watering they're made to sound in the books."

1. Cream butter and sugar until smooth. Beat in egg yolks. Blend in baking soda, lemon zest, salt and spices. Stir in flour and work until ball of dough is formed. Knead gently until smooth.

2. Roll out dough on floured surface to a 1/4-inch thickness. With floured butter knife, cut dough into small squares. Place on baking sheet lines with parchment paper.

3. Bake cakes in a preheated 300 F oven, 15 minutes. Make sure they don't brown on bottom. Place on a wire rack. While cooling, mix lemon

Here are the party tips that top Monroe-Cassel's list.

- The invite. ...A physical invitation is incredibly important. Plus, having something mysteriously delivered to your doorstep is so much cooler than an online notification.
- The dress code. Request everyone (wear) a cloak. If you don't own one, wrap an old skirt around your shoulders and use a pin to clasp it around your neck.

- The music. MS MR: the American pop duo's hauntingly beautiful song, Bones is featured in the Season 3 trailer. The Hold Steady: the lyrics to their song, The Bear and the Maiden Fair, were actually written by Game of Thrones author George R.R. Martin. But as it won't be out in time for your party, we recommend you have their latest album, Heaven is Whenever, on repeat.

Leafs come out of deadline limping

NHL. Toronto falls to Philadelphia and loses red-hot sniper Lupul to 'upper-body injury'

Former Maple Leafs tough guy Jay Rosehill scored the winner and Ilya Bryzgalov made 25 saves Thursday as the Philadelphia Flyers defeated Toronto 5-3.

Simon Gagne, Jakub Voracek, Brayden Schenn and Luke Schenn, into an empty net, had the other goals for Philadelphia (17-17-3), which won its fourth straight game.

Sean Couturier added two assists for the Flyers.

Riemsdyk scored for Toronto (20-13-4), which lost left-winger Joffrey Lupul in the first period to an upper-body injury after he took a hard hit.

James Reimer made 26 saves for the Maple Leafs in suffering just his fifth regulation loss, a day after Toronto management decided against bringing in a veteran goaltender at the NHL trade deadline. Dion Phaneuf chipped in with two assists.

Tied 2-2 after an eventful first period, Brayden Schenn gave the Flyers the lead just 54 seconds into the second on a terrible giveaway by Kulemin in the Toronto zone. Schenn moved into the high slot and fired a shot that squeaked through Reimer.

The Maple Leafs responded with a couple of spirited shifts that got the crowd involved, including a pair of hits from sniper Nazem Kadri.

But Philadelphia responded and stretched its lead to 4-2 at 15:53 when Couturier's shot from the point was tipped in by Rosehill, who was playing his first game with the Flyers since being acquired from the Anaheim Ducks on Monday. Reimer complained to the officials that he was interfered with, and replays suggested he had a case, but the goal stood.

Van Riemsdyk brought the Leafs closer at 6:14 of the third with his first goal in 11 games, roofing a shot from in tight on Bryzgalov for his 15th of the season.

Toronto had another couple of chances to tie the score as the period wore on, including a big push in the final minute, but couldn't get the equalizer before Luke Schenn scored into the empty net.

Of more concern for the Maple Leafs is the status of Lupul, who appeared to take a blow to the head after being sandwiched by Rosehill and Philadelphia's Adam Hall.

Rangers agree to deal with all-star shortstop Andrus

Elvis Andrus is staying in Texas because he wants to win a World Series with the team that brought him to the major leagues. Scott Boras, the agent who loves to have his clients test free agency, is fine with that.

The Rangers on Thursday announced a new contract that could keep the two-time all-star shortstop in Texas for another decade. Andrus is guaranteed $120 million over an additional eight seasons through 2022, with a vesting option for 2023.

Curling. Denmark takes out Canada in nine ends

Denmark's Rasmus Stjerne downed Canada's Brad Jacobs 7-3 at the world men's curling championships Thursday.

Canada dropped to 7-3 while the Danes finished the round-robin segment at 7-4. Jacobs' Northern Ontario rink was due to conclude the round-robin segment against Sweden later Thursday.

Stjerne secured the win as he made a great hit-and-roll shot in the ninth end.

The one-two Page playoff game and any necessary tiebreakers will be held Friday. The loser of the opening playoff game between the first and second-place teams will get another crack at the final against the winner of the three-four game Saturday.

Horoscopes

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

You have never been afraid to fight for your rights but you need to remember that others have rights as well. You could force your wishes on others today but it's really not worth the bad feeling.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

If you are the focus of gossip, the best way to deal with it is to laugh it off. It seems someone is stirring up trouble and hoping you will react. Now that you know, act cool.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You may not like it when others make decisions for you but the planets indicate you will have to grin and bear it today. Sometimes you have no choice but to follow orders. But you'll get your revenge.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Your rivals are not nearly as powerful or influential as they think they are. Your best defense when confronted by anger or animosity is to just ignore them. Imagine they don't exist — and for you they won't.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

There is something you know you must do, something you should probably have done weeks ago. Stop just thinking about it and do something concrete. Take the first step and the rest will come easy.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You can't resist giving advice — it's part of your nature — but don't be surprised if what you say today is outright rejected by a friend. You're allowed to give advice but they don't have to take it.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

There will be situations over which you have no control and you need to accept that. Don't waste your time and energy trying to change what cannot be changed. Relax — it's life.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Don't be too eager to get rid of one thing so you can have another, because it may not be as simple as that. If you are thinking of making changes, try waiting a few days. They may be unnecessary.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You may be inclined, in true Sagittarian fashion, to throw everything at a problem in the hope that one huge effort will solve it. Maybe it will, but more likely you will exhaust yourself. Is it really worth the effort?

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You seem to believe that the world is against you, that negative forces are plotting to bring you down. You've been reading too many conspiracy theories. The world is not against you, it loves you.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Is it possible to affect the outcome of a situation by thinking strong and positive thoughts about it? Yes, it is. And if you give it a go over the next few days you will be amazed by the results.

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

It will be easy to lose your temper with someone today but is it worth the effort? No, it's not. The best way to deal with those who annoy you is to pretend they don't exist.
